1 As a Warning, U.S. Fighter Jets Are Buzzing Kabul

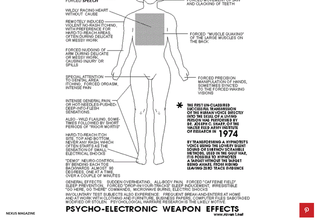
2 What Really Happened at 777 Pine Street?

3 Make This Small Table for Space-Saving Simplicity
Pop Mech Pro

Government Accidentally Releases Documents on "Psycho-Electric" Weapons

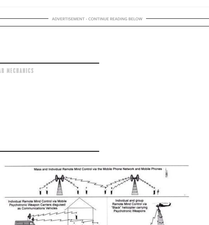
They were mistakenly sent to a journalist.

// BY DAVID_GROSSMAN APR 17, 2018



The government has all kinds of secrets, but only a true conspiracy theorist might suspect that "psycho-electronic weapons" are one of them. So it's odd that MuckRock, a news organization that specializes in filing Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) requests with state and federal government bodies, received mysterious documents about mind control, seemingly by accident.

Journalist Curtis Waltman was writing to the Washington State Fusion Center (WSFC), a joint operation between Washington State law enforcement and the federal government to request information about Antifa and white supremacist groups. He got responses to the questions he asked, but also a file titled "EM effects on human body.zip." Inside, where documents like this:

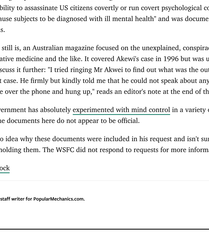


Documents held by the Washington State Fusion Center.

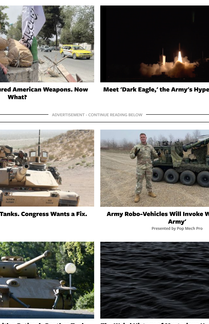
ADVERTISEMENT - CONTINUE READING BELOW

And these:

MORE FROM POPULAR MECHANICS



Remote mind control AND remote brain mapping.
JOHN ST CLAIR AKEWI



Human brain waves as described in documents held by the government for some reason.
UNKNOWN

At least some of the images appear to be part of an article in Nexus magazine describing a 1992 lawsuit brought by one John St. Clair Akewi against the NSA. Akewi claimed that the NSA had the "ability to assassinate US citizens covertly or run covert psychological control operations to cause subjects to be diagnosed with ill mental health" and was documenting their alleged methods.

Nexus was, and still is, an Australian magazine focused on the unexplained, conspiracy theories, alternative medicine and the like. It covered Akewi's case in 1996 but was unable to get Akewi to discuss it further: "I tried ringing Mr Akwei to find out what was the out-come, if any, of his court case. He firmly but kindly told me that he could not speak about anything to do with the case over the phone and hung up," reads an editor's note at the end of the article.

The federal government has absolutely experimented with mind control in a variety of methods, but the documents here do not appear to be official.

Waltman had no idea why these documents were included in his request and isn't sure why the government is holding them. The WSFC did not respond to requests for more information.

Source: MuckRock

DAVID GROSSMAN
David Grossman is a staff writer for PopularMechanics.com.

MORE FROM WEAPONS

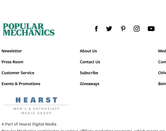
The Taliban Captured American Weapons. Now What?

Meet 'Dark Eagle,' the Army's Hypersonic Missile

ADVERTISEMENT - CONTINUE READING BELOW



Drones Threaten Tanks. Congress Wants a Fix.

Army Robo-Vehicles Will Invoke WWII's 'Ghost Army'
Presented by Pop Mech Pro

Germany Stuck with a Retiree's Panther Tank

The Weird History of Mysterious Underwater Craft

China Launches Its Own Baby X-37B

Brits' New Recon Vehicle Is In Serious Trouble

Watch Russia's Zircon Hypersonic Missile Blast Off

Poland Just Bought America's Gen X Tank

WEAPONS | MILITARY | MAGILLANS RELEASES THOUSANDS OF PURPORTED CIA DOCS | NEW DECLASSIFIED FLYING SAUCER DOCS | PRIVATE SPACE TO THE GOVERNMENT! | NIMS PRONE TO LAUNCH DESPITE SHUTDOWNS | UNION PRESIDENT: AVIATION INDUSTRY WEAR DISASTER | ROBOCALLS ARE GETTING WORSE THANKS TO THE SHUTDOWN

A Part of Hearst Digital Media
Popular Mechanics participates in various affiliate marketing programs, which means we may get paid commissions on editorially chosen products purchased through our links to retailer sites.

©2021 Hearst Magazine Media, Inc. All Rights Reserved.